The Week in Highlights

1 Three Heads of State, and one Prime Minister chose Mining Indaba to share their countries' vision

H.E. Cyril Ramaphosa, President of South Africa, H.E. Dr. Mokgweetsi E.K Masisi, President of Botswana, H.E. Hakainde Hichilema, President of Zambia, and H.E. Jean-Michel Sama Lukonde were among the headliners to take to the stage throughout the week.

2 Sarama Resources named the 2022 Investment Battlefield Champion

The West African gold explorer and developer Sarama Resources (TSX-V:SWA) was crowned the 2022 winner for its Sanutura, Koumandara, and Karankasso projects based in Burkina Faso.

3 A new record set – 36% female speaker line-up

2022 event achieved a new record of 36% female speakers taking to the global stage. Mining Indaba is committed to supporting the diversity and inclusion within the industry whilst inspiring the next generation of women.

4 Meeting and networking opportunities were at an all-time high

More meeting spaces, a customer-built intelligent matchmaking platform, and a plethora of networking functions ensured that focused meetings and organic interactions were at the heart of the delegates' experience.

5 A 33% increase in mining companies participation from 2020

The increase comes from a 9% increase in major and mid-tier companies and a 24% increase from junior mining companies. Mining Indaba continues to be the chosen event for the African mining industry.

6 The University of Cape Town are the first-ever winners of the Innovation & Research Battlefield

Held in partnership with DPI Mining and Business for Development, the brand-new competition crowned The University of Cape Town the winners - pitching 'building post-mining economies and sustaining communities through regenerative agriculture of industrial crops.'
